Unit 731 and the Japanese Biological Warfare Effort

Unit 731, its subunits and facilities were coordinated by the Epidemic Prevention Research Laboratory in Tōkyō.

UNIT 731 (Manshū Dai 731 Butai / 満洲第七三一部隊) Led by Ishii Shiro, the Water Supply and Purification Unit HQ was designated Unit 731 in August, 1941. Located in the Beiyinhe area of Harbin, Manchuria and later moved to Pingfan. According to an anonymous Youth Corps member T-San "...the name of the unit was not 731 - it was 731-T. That's because it was a secret unit." (Gold page 191) The code number later changed to 25202. UNIT 100 Located in Hsinking, Manchuria (present day Changchun). Was headed by a veterinarian, Dr. Wakamatsu Yujiro. UNIT 200 731 subunit located in Manchuria. No other details. UNIT 516 In April, 1942, joined Unit 731 on the outskirts of Hailar near the Soviet border for tests. UNIT 543 Branch of Unit 731 in Hailar. Located in old Russian barracks in front of station. SAKAE 1644 (Tama Unit) Under the China Expeditionary Army. Officially the Central China Water Supply and Purification Department. Located in Nanking. KŌ 1855 Under the North China Area Army. Water Supply and Purification Department located in Peiping. Had branch in Chinan that was a combination prison and experimentation

NAMI 8604 The South China Water Supply and Purification Department under 23 Army.

要 Established in 1938, at the Chungshan Medical University, Canton. Staffed by several hundred personnel.

OKA 9420 Established in February 1942 at the former Raffles Medical University in Singapore.

図 Staffed by 1,000 people and led by Major General Kitagawa Masataka. Had two Subunits: Kono Unit and Umeoka Unit.

Other 731 subunits were believed to have been located in Bangkok, Thailand and Rangoon, Burma.
